The Euclid, Ohio area will host its 24th annual Continental Amateur Baseball Association (CABA) High School World Series July 22 - 30, 2010.

The CABA HSWS format is a round robin preliminary round of 12, 4 team divisions, followed by a double elimination championship bracket. Win or lose, all teams are guaranteed a minimum of six games.

This is a series not to be missed. Why?

Each year the CABA HSWS draws coaches and scouts from over 125 colleges and universities, as well as scouts from Major League Baseball Clubs. Hundreds of college scholarships have been awarded to players from this world series, and millions of dollars in signing bonuses have been earned from the pros.

The talent level of this Series is arguably the best in the country for an event of this type, and each year it gets better. Outstanding players from this Series include such players as Alex Rodriguez, New York Yankees; Dan Wilson, Seattle Mariners; Johnny Damon, New York Yankees; and Todd Helton, Colorado Rockies and numerous others. The future of MLB begins, quite literally, in Euclid, Ohio.

Large crowds are attracted to each host site to view these exciting games. Of course, none of this would be possible without tremendous community involvement. Each year our foundation of volunteers has grown in number to accommodate an ever increasing number of team participants. Many volunteers even go so far as to schedule a week of their vacation so that they may participate.

With the help of these many volunteers, each venue raises the money necessary to conduct a world series of this quality. The CABA National Board of Directors has awarded the HSWS the most prestigious "Tournament of Excellence Award" for the twentieth consecutive year.

We look forward to the 2010 Series and the challenges it brings, and we welcome all participating players to the nation's best baseball.
